

“We work to rebuild communities, put Texans back in their homes, and help businesses recover after the trauma of disaster.”

- Commissioner George P. Bush

► OVERVIEW

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) awarded Texas $4.383 billion in Community Development Block Grant Disaster Recovery (CDBG-DR) funds for mitigation activities related to the 2015 and 2016 Floods and Hurricane Harvey. The allocation amounts for each disaster are provided below. HUD rules detailing program requirements will be published in a Federal Register Notice in the coming months.

The Texas General Land Office (GLO), the governor-designated state agency responsible for administering all CDBG-DR funds awarded to the state, is currently working to develop the HUD-required mitigation State Action Plan. Mitigation can broadly be described as actions taken to protect communities from the predictable damage from future events. A critical component of this plan involves vital stakeholder input.

 MITIGATION SURVEY

The following survey is one method the GLO is using to generate feedback on those needs and challenges:

“While the GLO continues its rigorous efforts to implement programs to rebuild family homes, reconstruct damaged multifamily affordable rental properties, and much more, we await funds to help improve infrastructure that will prevent this same type of damage when the next storm strikes. HUD and OMB need to publish the rules governing the $4.383 billion appropriated to Texas immediately so that we can begin working through the requirements necessary to turn dollars into construction as soon as possible.”
